'Work With Us'

Divisional Commanders Message

CITY

As I approach my retirement, I realise I have enjoyed every minute of my service and over the years I have had the opportunity to work with some fantastic people both within and outwith the force. I am particularly proud of the achievements in the past 18 months as Divisional Commander for Edinburgh. In the past year 3,200 fewer crimes have been committed across the city. That is 60 fewer crimes committed each week. This coupled with a solvency rate of 42% is a legacy of which I can be proud. This could never have been achieved without the dedication and hard work of front line and community officers and staff, along with those working in specialist units.

WIDE

I have seen partnership working across the city continue to develop to a position where we are now the envy of police forces across the country. The relationship we have with the City of Edinburgh Council and other agencies places us in a unique position where we can work together for the benefit of the people of Edinburgh and its visitors.

I am delighted that Chief Superintendent Colin Campbell will take on the role of Divisional Commander for A Division. I have known and worked closely with Colin for 27 years and I know he will continue to drive business forward with our partners and continue to support police officers and staff across the division as they face the ever increasing demands that will be placed upon them. I wish Colin and A Division all the best for the future.

Chief Superintendent George Simpson

HOT

Now the lighter evenings are with us and, hopefully, warmer weekends many of us will be making the most of it and going for walks in the Edinburgh parks and surrounding countryside and beaches.

A word of caution however if you are going by car. Car parks in these outlying areas usually do not have the security offered by lighting, security staff or even passing drivers/walkers. Thieves who steal from cars are always looking for easy opportunities to steal when they are least likely to be seen and so take advantage of this.

There is a lot you can do to protect your car and property.

- Make sure you have closed all your windows and sunroof and locked all the doors
- If your car has an alarm, use it.
- Never leave driving documents in your car.
- Don't leave anything on display in your car.
- Take all your valuables with you when leaving the car or take them out and leave them at home before your journey. If you must leave valuables, lock them out of sight in the boot and disable any bluetooth.
- If you have a Satellite Navigation, always take it with you when leaving your car and remove any suction marks on the windscreen

The following devices will enhance the security of your car and help to put off car thieves: Steering lock, Alarm, Immobiliser and Locking wheel nuts.

AND FINALLY

The spell of mild weather, which we have enjoyed recently, may have your thoughts turning to the garden, and the onset of spring! If you should be venturing out to tidy up, please bear in mind the following:

If you are working in the back garden or out of sight, ensure your front door is locked so the opportunist cannot get in.

Keep garage doors closed even if you are going backwards and forwards, open doors mean 'open house' to the thief.

And once you have finished for the day, ensure ALL your tools etc are safely locked in your shed with a stout closed shackle padlock. Garden tools such as spades and forks are often used by the opportunist to commit crime.
